Dear Bill,

I was very pleased that you decided to buy the Steven Campbell painting. It should be an excellent addition to the collection and I think it will look fabulous hanging in the lobby area.

Please find enclosed my invoice as well as the label for the Stephen Conroy painting. It was interesting to have a look at your recent acquisitions and I was thrilled to see your other Conroy which I think is a very strong example of his work. (568)

It did occur to me that you do not have any work by Will Maclean. His construction pieces are hugely sought-after and he is due to have an important museum retrospective in 1989-90 at the Scottish National Gallery, then possibly the Tate, followed by a museum in Germany. If you would like me to look out for his work, then I should be able to locate a good example.

I will send your catalogue to Alison Watt and shall inform her that you are interested in her work. As you know, I think she is an exceptional portraitist and, like Conroy, would be wise to collect at this early stage.

Please send my best regards to Robin Fleming and I look forward very much to seeing the Campbell hanging in its proposed location.

With best wishes,

*Yours
Jay*
